NAZI BRAIN TRUST
RUNNING INTO FOGVaried Reports In German
Capital Indicate Uncertainty

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Her Hitler's brain trust appears to be wandering about in foggy uncertainty regarding Allied intentions—a strained state of mind not relieved any by President Roosevelt's unamplified announcement that "the conference of the combined staffs in Washington has ended in complete agreement on future operations in all theaters of the war."

You couldn't blame the poor fletcher if he got mad and called the enemy is using unfair tactics. As an illustration of the position, important circles in the Boche capital yesterday produced these divergent ideas:

The Allies are getting ready for invasion and Germany must go on the defensive. There will be a Russian offensive. There won't be a Russian offensive for at least a month. There won't be any Russian offensive this summer. Stalin won't attack the Nazis first because he isn't sure whether the Anglo-American combination is ready to invade western Europe.

Reds Attack

In the midst of this muddy speculation came word of the successful Red attack against the fiercely defended German bridgehead on the Kuban delta opposite the Crimea. But while the Nazis knew that they had taken a beating, this didn't

Small Segments

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—United States troops have attacked the third main position which the Japanese had held on Attu island south of Lake Kories, the navy reported today, and indications were that the entire enemy force on the island was being rapidly broken up into very small points of resistance.

Navy communiqué 392 said:

"North Pacific:

The longest period of greatest prosperity the people of this country have ever known will follow in the wake of the war, William S. Miller, advertising manager of the General Fireproofing Co., of Youngstown, told a group of civic club members assembled in the Memorial building last night.

"Our system of free enterprise will be maintained and we will have standards of living far exceeding anything anyone has ever known," Miller predicted in his talk on "Now and Tomorrow."

This dinner meeting was attended by about 125 members of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs and a few invited guests. It was arranged at the suggestion of Floyd W. McKee, president of the Rotary club, who presided, to begin a study of post-war planning in Salem.

After the dinner, the guests were entertained by J. J. Miller and Rev. Henderson of Ravenna in solo and duet numbers, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Henderson.

Deplores Complacency

Deploping the complacency and lack of enthusiasm on the part of a great many people whose "what's the use" talk is detrimental to our national spirit and war effort, Miller said this condition is caused by two questions in the minds of most people.

These questions, he said, are: "Can we enjoy the same high standards of living after the war that we enjoyed before?" and "Under the chaotic conditions the world will find itself after the war, can we maintain our system of free enterprise?" His answer to both questions was an emphatic yes.

The courage, vision, resourcefulness and ingenuity of business will put to work the productive capacity of this country useful to human well-being, he said.

"We're going far beyond any standards of living we have known. By using our ability to produce to the fullest, we will produce what we have learned through scientific research and the things that are being developed during the war period to bring us a period of prosperity just as we enjoyed prosperity after the first world war."

Quoting prominent scientists of the country, Miller said the world will produce from ten to 50 times

CONVICT SOLDIER
ON ASSAULT COUNT

BUYRUS, May 28.—A jury of seven women and five men convicted Army Pvt. Glen Bevard, 33, of assault and battery in the strangulation death of Mrs. Wilma Reed, 28, on the eighth ballot shortly before last midnight, after deliberating nearly eight hours.

Bevard was charged with second degree murder. Testimony brought out that the two women, residents had been living as man and wife following Bevard's assignment to Camp Millard, near here.

Common Pleas Judge Clarence U. Ahl said he would sentence Bevard on the misdemeanor count Tuesday. Counsel for both sides indicated they would not contest the verdict.

Bevard testified he killed Mrs. Reed in self-defense March 21 during a quarrel in their apartment after leaving a beer parlor. He hid out for four days and five nights after the slaying before being apprehended and turned over to civil authorities for trial.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Conclusion of the strategy conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill was viewed in some quarters today as marking the beginning of the final phase of this global war—a phase in which the United Nations are destined to undertake full scale offensives in both Europe and the Pacific.

The end of the historic meeting was announced by Mr. Roosevelt late yesterday. He said simply that "complete agreement" had been reached on future plans. What those plans are will become known only as they unfold in action.

The very wording of the President's statement, however, suggested that when the conference began there were questions of vast strategic importance which required answering to the satisfaction of both British and American leaders. The fact that, as Mr. Roosevelt indicated, they have been answered leaves no doubt that decisions of supreme importance have been made.

Complete Agreement

The President's statement said only this:

"The conference of the combined staffs in Washington has ended in complete agreement on future operations in all theaters of the war."

That the war against Japan received the fullest consideration was made clear by Mr. Churchill in his address to congress. Yet it was

LOITERERS GIVEN
WARNING BY POLICE

Boisterous activities and loitering in front of downtown cafes, particularly on Saturday nights, is not going to be tolerated, Mayor R. R. Johnson declared today.

Offenders will be jailed immediately and given stiff fines, he warned.

The warning came as an aftermath of a recent set-to between Mike Heltman, Jr., and Police Chief Ralph Stoffer, precipitated by Heltman's alleged refusal to get off the street.

Blows were exchanged in the ensuing melee and Heltman was arrested after the chief was forced to use a night stick on the prisoner. Heltman later pleaded guilty to a charge of loitering and was fined $10 and costs by the mayor.

QUART PER MONTH
IS LIQUOR RATIONOr, It May Be a Fifth or

Next Tuesday

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 28.—State Liquor Director Don Fisher announced today that Ohio's initial liquor rationing allowance would be one quart or fifth or two pints, for a four week period from June 1 to 26, inclusive.

Fisher said holders of ration books would be limited to a single purchase over the four-week period. He added that a purchaser could not buy a single pint at one time and later return during the same period to buy a second pint.

Treated Alike

Quarts and fifths (four-fifths of a gallon) are to be treated identically under the ration program, Fisher explained, since virtually all distillers are bottling in the fifth size.

The director indicated subsequent ration periods might also be of four-weeks duration. He said, however, the ration unit might be varied, depending upon the state's liquor inventory.

"During the first period, every item on the state store list will be covered by the ration program."

RAF HAMMERS
RUHR TARGETSEssen Pounded; Explosives
Dropped On War Plants
In Jena

(By United Press)

LONDON, May 28.—A great fleet of heavy RAF bombers attacked Essen and other targets in the Ruhr last night a few hours after speedy Mosquito bombers had made a daring dusk attack on important German war industries in Jena, the British announced today.

Twenty-three bombers were lost in the Essen attack, said the announcement, which declared the raid was carried out "in great strength."

Other British planes laid mines in enemy waters during the night. Essen is the site of the sprawling Krupp munitions works, and is 22 miles northeast of Duesseldorf, which was blasted by the RAF in a smashing assault the night before last.

10,000 Tons of Bombs

Essen became the most heavily bombed city in the world after the last previous raid on April 30—an assault which brought the total weight of bombs dumped on this target to more than 10,000 tons since the start of the war.

Last night's raid was the 56th on the city and was probably lighter than the 2,000-ton raid on Dortmund Sunday night and the Tuesday night attack on Duesseldorf, both described as "of very great strength."

The offensive was continued by daylight today, RAF fighters sweeping out at dawn toward northern France.

A Jena, the speedy Mosquitoes struck chiefly at the Carl Zeiss instrument factory and the Schott glass works. First reports said both were sharply damaged. The works are rated as the most important of their kind in Germany.

WILL COORDINATE
FEDERAL AGENCIES

Must Keep Military and Civilian Economy Running "As Team"

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 28 President Roosevelt today named James F. Byrnes head of a compact War Mobilization board to direct all the nation's victory efforts behind the battle fronts.

Terse, the President summed up its duty as to keep "both our military machine and our essential civilian economy running in team and at high speed."

Byrnes in effect thus became what Washington quickly labeled a czar of cars in the war effort.

The board, small in numbers but large in authority, was told to unify activities of federal agencies and departments "engaged in or concerned with production, procurement, distribution of transportation of military or civilian supplies, materials and products and to resolve and determine controversies between such agencies or departments."

Will Be Arbiter

The power to resolve inter-agency disputes means Byrnes will be the arbiter in any future controversies such as that between Rubber Director William M. Jeffers and Under secretary of War Patterson.

There has been recurring talk in congress, and bills have been introduced in congress to achieve the end, that these should be some central, overall agency tying in the various efforts of making war at home. President Roosevelt's action followed the general pattern, although not specifically going so far as some have suggested in calling for such things as a war board whose powers would include the drafting of war workers.

Byrnes' board is composed of these officials:

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, Chairman Harry L. Hopkins of the munitions assignment board, Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board, and Judge Fred M. Vinson, who takes over the job Byrnes is leaving, the Office of Economic Stabilization.

Byrnes is a one-time South Carolina senator who left the supreme court to become director of economic stabilization. Apparently his further elevation leaves the President

JEEP PRODUCTION WILL BE RESUMED

TOLEDO, May 28.—Settlement of a labor dispute which caused a three-day work stoppage at the Spicer Manufacturing Corp., maker of axles and transmissions for army vehicles, cleared the way today for resumption of jeep production at Willys-Overland Motors, Inc.

John Connor, special representative of the War Labor board, said more than 4,000 Spicer employees would start returning to their jobs at 7 a. m. Saturday. He did not indicate when jeep production, dependent on Spicer axles, would be resumed.

Connor said an agreement to end the work stoppage was reached late last night between representatives of Spicer and local 12 of the CIO United Auto Workers union after two days of conferences with a four-man conciliation panel. Details of the agreement were not stated.

More than 4,000 Spicer employees and 1,000 on the jeep assembly line at Willys-Overland were affected by the shutdown.

Lloyd J. Haney, Spicer industrial relations head, said the dispute involved discharge of one man in the transmission department and reclassification of machine operators in the axle division.

Secretary Thomas Burke of UAW local 12 asserted the plant had locked out employees.

ITALY AS A TEST CASE

Prime Minister Churchill's invitation to Italians to get rid of Mussolini and his crowd and thereby to save themselves from the further consequences of being allied with Germany and Japan makes Italy the test case for post-war methods.

First, how far into the Fascist ranks would the purge need to go to rid Italy of the Mussolini influence? Second, what then would be done with the discredited leadership, provided the Italians did not do their purging with guns? Third, how far would the Allies feel justified in going in development of new leadership, to make certain the new leadership did not turn out to be lesser known members of the Mussolini gang? Fourth, if the new leadership came to be threatened by a counter-revolution, which might be expected from the remaining infection of the Fascist party, what steps should be taken to defend it?

If Italy does fall out of the war, the handling of the ensuing problems will be an invaluable object lesson in the handling of the greater complications that inevitably will follow the final defeat of Germany.

POTATO JUGGLING

New OPA plans for potato juggling are overshadowed by the OPA's interesting supposition that the shortage can be eased by pricing. This will be quite a shock to housewives and breadwinners.

They had assumed that prices ranging upward to the equivalent of $6 a bushel for potatoes bought in small sack lots must be providing enough price incentive to bring every potato in existence into the market.

Yet, here is OPA offering to increase the potato supply by a 7 per cent cut in consumer prices, accompanied by an increase of 30 cents a hundred for growers. If this comes off, it will be the trick of the year. Potato eaters will demand to know why it took OPA so many weeks to think of it. On the other hand, if it doesn't come off it will be just another OPA headache, which seems more likely.

EDEL FORD

The usefulness of Edsel Ford was not confined to his share in the vast enterprise founded by his father. Henry Ford was fortunate in having a son able to resist the advantages of his position and become an executive in his own right. But that was largely a family matter.

The public benefit derived from the father-son relationship consisted in the widely publicized fact that the younger Mr. Ford had developed in the management of Ford Motor Co. to a degree that permitted no doubt of his personal capacity for management of one of the country's largest industrial enterprises. This seemed to assure the Ford Co.'s future along the same lines of its development as a family enterprise.

His son's untimely death in the prime of his career interferes with this important plan, how seriously remains to be seen. The country has lost one of its able executives; there is no type of citizen needed more, or harder to replace on short notice.

BOA CONSTRICTOR METHODS

War Labor board's arrangement whereby John L. Lewis and bituminous coal operators can get together to reach a new agreement that will give the miners substantially what they want and at the same time give the operators control of their property again is vaguely reminiscent of a boa constrictor at feeding time.

The meal, in this instance, is the War Labor board, slowly being ingested by Mr. Lewis, after being previously squeezed into a pulp by organized labor in general. In other words, it looks as though Mr. Lewis has done what he was said to be trying to do. He has proved he is still able to swing more weight in a pinch than the War Labor board; he has made it give ground by its arrangement to bring him and the operators together to renew negotiations, with the board not represented.

It may be too soon to jump at conclusions, but it looks as though the War Labor board might be on its way to oblivion.

ONE THING LEADS TO ANOTHER

Already the phrase "fourth term" has become as familiar to the argumentative tongue as "third term" was beginning to be a year before the party conventions in 1940. If anything, it is easier to grow accustomed to the sound of "fourth term" than "third term". To Democrats, at least, it is easier to grow accustomed to the idea, too.

There is no precedent about a fourth term; the presidential term precedent was broken when Mr. Roosevelt was nominated and elected the third time. The way was opened, as was apparent even then, for any number of terms. Certainly there is now this difference, that whereas the third term was an issue inside the Democratic party in 1939, the fourth term seems already to have been accepted four years later by party members, who this time must have decided to leave the issue to the opposition.

It is a perfect example of the way one thing leads to another. Any day now, as far as Democrats are concerned, will not be too soon to start mentioning the fifth term.

LONG LIVE THE TAX ARGUMENT!

After spending five months deciding to do in effect what could have been done in fact as early as last January, or even during the 1942 congressional session if partisanship hadn't interfered, congress is now believed ready to accept income tax reform.

The compromise measure developed out of the differences between the senate and house is just that a compromise. As such, it is acceptable, though few will claim that the original Ruml plan would not have been better than a reasonable facsimile. The main thing is that withholding taxes will be put into effect to help repress inflation.

Already, the means of collecting income taxes are passing out of controversy and making way for the new and larger question of whether and how to collect more revenue. This subject is reported by Washington observers to have been handled badly; in fact, nothing has been done about it, despite the treasury department's demand for a net increase of $16,000,000,000 in tax income for the next fiscal year.

Congressmen who are pleased to get the Ruml plan fight off their necks now have that $16,000,000,000 question in their laps. The tax argument is dead; long live the tax argument!

POST-WAR FARM PRICES

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 28.—Producer expressions of concern over post-war farm prices crept into the United States food conference discussion today.

They came from three Western Hemisphere sources the United States, Brazil and Canada.

Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio State Farm Bureau federation and a member of this country's delegation, reported many farmers had got the impression the conference was searching for ways to supply consumers with "plenty of cheap food."

Himself an enthusiastic participant in the parley, Lincoln said he was taking steps to reassure farm leaders that the program being projected here was based on the premise that farmers would get "equitable prices" for a "much greater output of commodities than heretofore produced."

"ALCOHOLICS UNANIMOUS"
NEVER AGAIN!

TOBACCO AND BLOOD PRESSURE

It's Effects Are Slight, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

WE DISCUSSED last week some of the fears—whether well founded or not—as to the effect of tobacco and concluded that while "moderate" was a word subject to considerable personal interpretation, moderate smoking will not bring on any diseased condition, either functional or organic.

There remains the question of whether smoking is harmful to people who are not entirely healthy at the time of beginning the experience. Those who have high blood pressure are particularly anxious about this subject. In making a decision on the point it is obvious that we have to have some standards. It will not do to leave it merely to opinion nor to the report of the person with high blood pressure as to how he feels.

After taking a smoke, the fellow with high blood pressure will always defiantly tell his wife that he "feels fine".

By way of having a standard, we know that physiologically tobacco contracts the blood vessels, particularly on the surface of the body.

By using a thermometer which takes merely surface temperature—that is, applied to the surface of the skin—we have a method of measuring the effect of tobacco.

Experiments On Students With this standard of measurement Drs. Cates and Giovannaszi, of Los Angeles, experimented on six young, healthy medical students.

They found in all of them that the peripheral temperature of the skin was decreased from 1.8° C. to 6.5° C. after smoking. In the group of people with high blood pressure, most of them over 50 years old, after smoking the change of temperature in the skin of the fingers and toes was never more than 3.5° C., and most of them, less than 1° C.

In studying the effect of tobacco on the same two groups as to the change in blood pressure the young, healthy medical students showed an elevation in blood pressure of from 13 to 35 points. In the group of high blood pressure in patients of older age the greatest change in blood pressure was only 15 points and the average was 8 points.

This would seem to indicate that tobacco has not as bad an influence on high blood pressure as might be expected and, in fact, the high blood pressure patients do not show as much change as the normal patients without high blood pressure.

Changes Skin Temperature It is valuable to note that the temperature of the skin and the toes changed considerably in all patients after smoking. This should be applied to the condition known as Buerger's disease. Buerger's disease is an inflammation of the blood vessels of the extremities—usually the toes—as a result of which the inflammatory exudate and clotting of the blood often cause a closing of the blood vessels with consequent discomfort.

It has never been suggested that tobacco causes Buerger's disease because a number of cases have been found in people who have never used tobacco. But there is no question that once the condition is established, smoking makes it worse.

The most successful treatment for Buerger's disease is to apply heat to the extremities and by various foot exercises to increase the circulation in the toes. It can be seen that if tobacco reduces the temperature of the toes—probably by creating a spasm of the vessels—there is good reason why tobacco does harm in this condition.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. T. F.: Recently you said that people should not drink a pint of carrot juice a day and drinking a pint of anything except water is a bad plan. Do you mean that drinking milk in these amounts is a bad plan?

Answer: I am afraid you have caught me in an oversight. I certainly do not consider milk a bad drink, especially for children, although I am a little doubtful about whether more than a pint a day for adults is a good thing.

J. G.: What is the general cause of skin being too dry and itchy, but with no visible signs of an eczema?

Answer: Probably taking baths too often.

New Yorker Invents
Skates for Moving
Soldiers On Roads

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Troops will move up to new battlefronts on roller skates, where paved roads are available, if the government accepts the suggestion of Charles Shye, inventor of a new type of skate, designed especially to transport soldiers will full packs on their backs.

As streamlined as a racing car and as sturdy as an ox, Shye said today that the skate is particularly adapted for use by troops because it is "very maneuverable; a pair costs less than a pair of army shoes to make, and weighs 4½ pounds."

Shye, who has offered both his services and his skate invention to the government for the duration at the rate of a nickel a year, said that while the skate was designed especially for use by the armed forces, it has civilian wartime value in that it could be used by defense workers traveling from their homes to their jobs and back again, by letter carriers with their big bags of mail, policemen and by just the average citizen at a saving of millions of gallons of gasoline, thousands of tires and much leather annually.

Built For Heavy Duty He pointed out that it might also be used by those in bombing areas, including stretcher bearers, in order to relieve traffic congestion.

His skate, the inventor said, will better stand the knocks it would have to take over long routes because the skate as a whole is built for "heavy duty" and the wheels are wider to permit greater movement on rather rough roads.

It differs from the conventional skate, Shye said, in that it requires no riveting operations in its manufacture, where the conventional skate necessitates from 10 to 16 and that it has only two component parts, a truck and a chassis, while the ordinary skate has from five to eight. Also, the kingpin of the new type of skate is so constructed that its chances of breaking are "nearly nil," and a one-hand operation is all that is needed to adjust the skate.

The time it would take to teach the average soldier to become an expert skater, Shye believes, would be immaterial in view of the benefits to be gained.

The military term platoon originated in the 18th century.

Air Gunners Thrill Texans Who Still Pack Six-Shooters

HARLINGEN, Tex.—If they could come back here for a single day, old-time hoppers, quick on the draw with their six-shooters and so tough the world is still learning about them in movies and magazines, would find they are completely disqualified by the new book of rules for Rio Grande hard guys. Uncle Sam is the author of this text and he has established in this town, which was known as Six-Shooters Junction not so many decades ago, the Harlingen Army Aerial Gunnery School, which is specializing in getting the draw on the desperadoes of Hitler and Tojo.

Where the Texas outlaw of legendary fame also prided himself on horsemanship and the speed with which he could wheel and fire while in the saddle, a young man in this Rio Grande Valley base must be able to train his gun, firing 80-mm. bullets, which travel 2,800 feet per second, into an enemy plane. While firing he must be able to maintain his equilibrium in his own plane, whether it is zooming or banking in a dog fight miles above the earth.

No Mathematics Then

Citizens in border towns know what it takes to become an aerial gunner. They know the I.Q. averages 110 in each class at the school; that the six weeks of intensive training a soldier here goes through not only familiarizes him with every phase of gunnery but that if he does not score as a marksman he is washed out. And they remember that in the old days of the border "there was none of the mathematics that goes with today's shooting in the air they are learning down here."

The U. S. Army figures it would be worthwhile for other Americans to get to know aerial gunners as well as those borderline Texans do. That is why it virtually turned over the school to William Pine, a Hollywood contingent here and made a feature, "Aerial Gunner," which is ready to be shown in theaters throughout the country.

Today men in this town may be seen wearing 10-gallon hats and toting side arms, some of them showing old-school pearl handles jutting out of holsters. They are law-abiding citizens, many of them ranchers who have been accustomed to six-shooters or automatics since childhood. They have great respect for aerial gunners and laughingly admit they would "hate to think" what would happen to the toughest of the old outlaws "if one of these boys ever went to work on him."

"Own Shootin' Contest"

Typical here of such law-abiding citizens who tote guns is Pryor Dillard. A rancher, he also gets around once a month here and in Mercedes to auctioning off cattle in $100,000

WATER RECEDING IN FLOOD SECTORS

(By Associated Press)
The mighty Mississippi river and some of its flooded tributaries were receding at several critical points today while thousands of farmers in inundated areas hoped to be able to start their delayed wartime food production soon.

Army engineers estimated, however, some of the land would not be tillable for another month.

Even as it receded from flood-devastated areas, the Mississippi approached a record crest at Cape Girardeau, Mo., of 42.5 feet. Dikes to the south were expected to be able to hold the torrent.

The Illinois and Arkansas rivers also were dropping and Col. L. B. Feagin of the United States Army engineers at St. Louis said he did not expect the Mississippi to get out of hand below Cairo, Ill. The Ohio river, in past years an equally dangerous partner in flood destruction, was below bank-full.

However, Colonel Feagin warned that the danger there was not past. A sudden washout could put thousands of additional acres under water, he said.

The crest of the Arkansas was moving on from Little Rock to Pine Bluff, Ark., after inundating 50 blocks of the former city. Below Pine Bluff the stream is flanked by huge levees.

'SECRET BID' BILL SENT TO GOVERNOR

Highway Director Is Given More Freedom In Letting Contracts

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 28.—Republican members of the Ohio house of representatives, accepting a dare from Democratic colleagues, today sent to Gov. John W. Bricker legislation granting the state highway director more freedom in awarding contracts.

The measure allows the director to keep secret his engineer's estimates of project costs and to award contracts in excess of the estimates.

When a Democratic administration six years ago sought similar legislation, Republican legislators denounced it, contending it would open the way for possible graft.

Rep. A. Lee Fair of Holmes county, acting Democratic floor leader, recalled the Republicans' opposition yesterday as the house took up a senate-house conference report on the bill already approved by the senate.

"I dare you to approve it and I hope you do," he declared.

Rep. L. P. Mooney (R., Hocking), accepting the challenge, asserted the taxpayers had nothing to fear from the highway bill because the present state administration had been above reproach in its highway activities.

The conference report was approved, 75 to 34, and messaged to the governor for his signature.

Would Facilitate Lettings
Highway Director Hal G. Sours said the legislation authorized practices in effect in most other states. He said these practices would facilitate letting of contracts.

Members of the legislature prepared today to work through Saturday in an effort to complete their work this week for sine die adjournment June 8.

There was a question whether they could wind up this week because about 10 senate-house conference committees were wrestling with bills unsatisfactory to either the house or the senate.

The senate bill to exempt "share-the-ride" motorists from responsibility for the safety of passengers was virtually killed in the house judiciary committee yesterday.

The committee refused, by three votes, to recommend it for passage in the house, and then adjourned for the session.

Federal agencies had endorsed the bill on the ground it would encourage cooperative transportation of war workers. Opponents contended it was unwise to remove legal protection from passengers who might be injured in an accident.

Abolition of the $5 a day fees received by county commissioners for inspecting drainage ditches and sewer projects was practically assured when the senate completed enactment of a house bill.

Various members of the legislature had sought unsuccessfully to abolish the fees since 1937. In that year the legislature increased the commissioners' salaries after the Ohio county commissioners' association agreed to forego the fees.

The fees are collected in 32 counties and bring some commissioners as much as $500 a year. The senate vote on the bill was 18 to 12.

On Engineers' Board

Earl Newell, Columbiana contractor, was elected to the board of directors of the Mahoning Valley Society of Professional Engineers at a meeting last night in the Y. M. C. A. He fills the unexpired term of Lee Kimball, state highway department engineer who was transferred to New Philadelphia.

Principal speaker at the meeting was Walter Graff of Lancaster, member of the state board of examiners for professional engineers.

Attending the meeting from Salem was Arthur V. Smith, Ohio Edison maintenance chief.

THIRD JAPANESE FRONT ATTACKED

Entire Foe Force On Attu
Being Broken Up Into

medium bombers and Warhawk (Curtiss P-40) fighters made three attacks on Kiska, bombing the Japanese main camp area and runway. Numerous hits were observed.

"3. In an attack on Kiska (reported in navy department communication number 391) the Warhawk fighters participating were manned by Royal Canadian Air Force pilots."

The navy issued no reports on Attu fighting later than Wednesday. Spokesman said, however, that "every bit of information we have indicates it is continuing."

The fight might be won before the week-end, authorities said, or it might take two or three days longer to clear up the final pockets of enemy resistance.

There were some indications in today's war bulletin that Japanese opposition, in fact, already had been broken down into a number of small groups of men and had pretty well lost its character of organized fighting.

This is a kind of situation in which the Japanese soldier fights most stubbornly, however, and the job of American troops became increasingly one of hand-to-hand combat with bayonet and grenade.

Jap Diet Will Meet

(By Associated Press)
The Japanese diet has been summoned to an extraordinary three-day session beginning June 15, a Tokyo broadcast recorded by the Associated Press announced today.

It will be the fourth extraordinary session since General Hideki Tojo assumed the premiership on Nov. 18, 1941.

PROSPERITY ERA AFTER WAR SEEN

Higher Living Standards
Predicted By Speaker
At Salem Rally

more than it produced in 1939, "which wasn't such a bad year." The speaker then cited some of the things which will be required in vast quantities and which will require years to meet the demand, including autos, housing, roads, ship building, railroads, farming, etc. There will be a food shortage for many years after the war because this country must feed the world, he said.

Most of the things to be produced will be innovations and many things now used will be obsolete. He referred particularly to new autos, making present models far out of date, and pre-fabricated houses, "with everything now in a house being obsolete, including furniture, carpets, heating, etc."

From The Same Place
The money to buy all these things is coming from the same place people have been getting their money from the last 40 years, he said.

Miller said the answer to the first question he was discussing, relative to standards of living, was the answer to the second on maintaining our system of free enterprise.

"This war is a blessing in disguise," he said, "because the boys who come back are going to demand the freedom they have been fighting for and all of us are going to be fed up with government control and regimentation of our living by that time. The pendulum already has started to swing back and by the end of the war it will have swung entirely in the right direction, bringing with it a maintenance of our system of free enterprise."

Following Miller's talk, Chairman McKee announced that he and Presidents George Jones and John Lewis of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs will select a post-war planning committee to work with city officials.

He passed out lists of city project ideas, asking each one to mark the six most important and worthwhile for consideration of the committee, and to suggest others.

The list included water reservoir southeast of town; surplus water supply; water softening system; cutoff highway between Routes 14 and 45; overhead railway crossings at W. State st. and the Lisbon road; swimming pool; city hall and fire station on present site; removal of city hall and fire station to Broadway, or to State st., east of Lincoln.

Community improvements proposed for consideration include tree planting on highways and streets, sidewalk extension and repairs, landscaping of curb area, dwelling rehabilitation and city planning commission.

BYRNES WILL HEAD LATEST WAR BOARD

Formation of New Organization Is Announced By Roosevelt

free to give more of his time to the unending problems of war strategy. The new office is to:

Develop unified programs and establish policies for maximum use of America's natural and industrial resources for military and civilian needs, for effective use of national manpower outside the armed forces, for maintenance and stabilization of civilian economy and for adjusting that economy to war time conditions.

Byrnes is giving up his job as economic stabilization director, and that will be taken over by Judge Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky, now a member of the United States circuit court of appeals in the District of Columbia. Vinson served in congress for 14 years before he went on the bench and is considered an authority on taxation and economic affairs.

Under FDR Control
The new Office of War Mobilization was actuated in the Office of Emergency Management in the President's executive office. Therefore it will be subject to the "direction and control of the President."

The executive order setting it up said it was to unify activities of federal agencies and departments "engaged in or concerned with production, procurement, distribution or transportation of military or civilian supplies, materials and products and to resolve and determine controversies between such agencies or departments."

Exceptions will be some of the controversies regarding price controls and food, the control of which is lodged in the economic stabilization director.

Byrnes will be director of the war office and also chairman of a war mobilization committee which will assist him. Its members will be Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Chairman Harbord, Chairman of the Munitions Assignments board, Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board and Vinson.

In an explanatory statement, Mr. Roosevelt said he was creating the office to "unify more closely the work of the war agencies concerned with the production, procurement, transportation and distribution of military and civilian supplies, materials, and products."

"We are entering a phase of the war effort," he asserted, "when we must streamline our activities, avoid duplication and overlapping, eliminate interdepartmental friction, make decisions with dispatch, and keep both our military machine and our essential civilian economy running in team and at high speed."

The President said the committee has been kept small so it can function effectively, but that heads of governmental departments and agencies would sit in with it whenever matters especially concerning them received consideration. He said the committee sometimes would meet with him in the cabinet room at the White House.

The President created the new top war agency by invoking his powers as President and commander in chief and his authority in the Constitution and federal laws, particularly the first War Powers act of 1941.

NAZI BRAIN TRUST RUNNING INTO FOG

Varied Reports In German Capital Indicate Uncertainty

clarify the question of who is going to inaugurate the summer's grand slam—if any—and when.

The Russian drive is for the purpose of cutting the Nazis entirely from this side gateway to the Caucasus. The Germans have been hanging onto this sector for dear life, in hope of being able to land an army there from the Crimea, which lies just across the narrow strait of Kerch.

Therefore the Red move is in the first place defensive. However, if successful it immediately puts the Bolsheviks in position to capitalize on it in a major offensive against the entire right wing of Hitler's forces which have their main anchor west of Rostov where the mighty Don empties into the sea of Azov.

That much isn't difficult to figure out. But is Stalin going to undertake a major offensive, or does he indeed intend to wait until John Bull and Uncle Sam have clambered ashore in western Europe?

Well, only the Allied high command knows that—we hope. If America and Britain are going to be able to invade western Europe in the near future, then it wouldn't be surprising if it had been agreed that Stalin should hold his hand so that concerted offensives can be made on both the eastern and western fronts.

Like Kaiser

This would put Herr Hitler in a position similar in some ways to that occupied by the Kaiser in the last war, that is, hurling troops madly back and forth across Europe to defend two fronts at once. However, the Munich paper-hanger suffers from a disability which didn't afflict his August predecessor—Germany's transport system is pretty well shot to pieces now, and speedy movement of troops and supplies would be a tough problem. It would be particularly difficult because of

MANTLE OFFICERS FACE JAIL TERMS

WILMINGTON, Del., May 28.—Four officers of the Mantle club, which for 15 years has preached business ethics to an estimated 30,000 members from Rhode Island to California, faced prison sentences today, convicted of using the mail to defraud and violating the securities act of 1933.

A U. S. district court jury brought in verdicts of guilty last night against Hugh B. Monjar, president and founder of the organization, and three members of the club's board of governors, ending a four-month trial in which Monjar was defended by hundreds of the persons he was accused of victimizing.

Convicted of conspiracy were eight other co-defendants, including Monjar's wife, Josephine, who shared the $100,000 home Monjar admitted buying—with funds obtained from members—in the main line Philadelphia suburb of Ardmore. Three others, all west coast residents, were acquitted.

Sentencing of all the defendants was deferred by Judge Paul Leahy after Chief Defense Counsel Daniel O. Hastings announced he would immediately ask a new trial.

Monjar and the other principal defendants, John Fenton Jones, Abraham J. Cooke and Clement O. Drew, all of Wilmington, face possible maximum sentences of 97 years and possible maximum fines of $49,000 each.

the terrific air-power which the Allies can bring against communications—something the old Kaiser didn't have to worry about greatly. However, is the Allied high command isn't prepared to undertake major invasions anywhere in Europe in the near future, then it's likely that Stalin either will strike at Hitler or that the latter will have one more great fling at trying to destroy the Red military machine. One scarcely would expect the eastern front to remain in a state of comparative inaction throughout the good fighting months of the summer.

Actually Hitler and Stalin are sparring with each other up and down the entire length of the thousand mile battle-front, looking for an opening that may permit of more extensive operations. Hitler, of course, is having to be doubly cautious so as not to get caught with a big offensive in western Europe while he is launching an attack against Russia.

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 28. — Allied invasion of the European continent this summer, followed by a drive through Burma to reopen the China routes, was envisaged in some quarters today as focal points of the long-range strategy developed in the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences.

The President, at the conclusion of the conferences yesterday announced "complete agreement" had been reached among the Allied chiefs and this was taken to mean that vital decisions for full scale offensives on Germany and Japan had been reached.

How to finance the U. S. share of this mighty aim already is shaping up as the most pressing problem on Capitol Hill. Anticipating work to start soon on a general revenue bill to meet administration requests for $16,000,000,000 more than the treasury collects in taxes now, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee conceded that a sales tax might be the "last resort" alternative for far financing. He always has been against it and even now said one should be adopted only "after all other reasonable means" have been exhausted. Proponents of a sales tax have insisted all along that this is exactly the case.

Just as vexing were multiple wartime food problems. The house authorized its agriculture committee to investigate the marketing situation and Chairman Fulmer (D-SC) said he thought it would show that "most of the food dollar goes to the middleman" — a leech-like link that can be eliminated by streamlining our food distribution system.

At the same time the War Food administration embarked on a search for idle farm machinery, announcing it would be requisitioned and sold to farmers who need it in an effort to boost production.

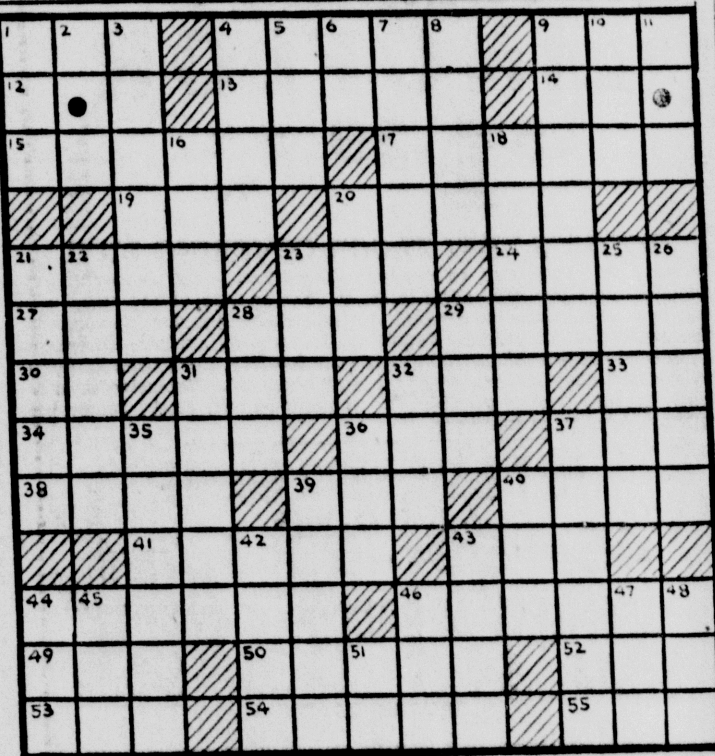

The food rationing agency, OPA, meanwhile watched with interest scrap between two deputy administrators, Lou Maxon and Dr. J. K. Galtsoff, over their respective authority and Price Administrator Prentiss Brown served notice their row would have to end or one would be out of a job.

In the senate, a decision approaches on the administration's request for continued authority to negotiate foreign trade agreements. Secretary of State Hull's insistence that he have the sole authority appeared to be gaining more support in the face of demands by some factions that congress have veto power.

The expected happened in senate circles on the poll tax issue. Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) announced he would try to talk the measure to death if and when it comes up after having passed the house. The bill, bitterly fought by southern congressmen, would abolish poll tax collection as a voting prerequisite in seven southern states. It died by filibuster, in the senate last year.

CHARRED REMAINS OF BOMBER THAT HIT GAS TANK

ALL THAT REMAINS of the giant Liberator bomber that struck an illuminating gas tank on the outskirts of Chicago is this charred, twisted heap of metal. The plane crashed into the 485-foot tank while flying 100 feet high through unfavorable weather and the twelve men making up the crew were killed instantly. Army officials are making an inquiry into the cause of the disaster. (International Soundphoto)

Confederates Ate Some Tough Food

ATLANTA, Ga.—So you think the grocery shortage is pretty tough, eh?

Well, listen to what Confederate soldiers and citizens faced when Vicksburg, Miss., was under siege.

In an order of the day, dated June 28, 1863, a copy of which hangs on the wall in Atlanta's Confederate Soldiers' home, Major General Smith instructed that "when a mule is maimed by the fire of the enemy, it may be made use of immediately for food."

The order continued that General Smith was of the opinion that "soup is, perhaps, the most palatable form in which the flesh can be used."

The order of the day from General Smith brought forth an editorial in the Vicksburg Daily Citizen, published on wall paper, praising the "Confederate steak" as

"sweet, savory and tender" and commenting that "as long as we have a mule left, we are satisfied our soldiers will be content to subsist on it."

But apparently the diet palled on the defenders. Two days after the surrender, the Daily Citizen carried another editorial on the subject of food.

"Two days bring about great changes," the writer stated. "Never again will this paper eulogize the luxury of mule meat and fricasseed kitten, and urges Southern warriors to such diet never more."

Sergeant Sergeant

(By International News Service)
CAMP STEWART, Ga.—The roll call at Camp Stewart may sound to an outsider like double talk when he hears "Sergeant, Sergeant."

But that's the name and rank of one of the non-commissioned officers. Sgt. Judd Sergeant of Palisades Park, N. J., was a railway express clerk before he entered the service Feb. 17, 1942. Promoted to technician fifth grade on Dec. 2, 1942, he recently was advanced to his present rank.

Children Jumble Radio Words, Says Montana Teacher

(By United Press)

BILLINGS, Mont.—Fast speaking news commentators and announcers are changing the speaking vocabulary of many children due to the fact the ear becomes insensitive to differences in consonant sounds after listening to the radio for hours at a time.

Miss Dorothy Parizek, a Billings, Mont., school teacher, found this so true among her students she began a study of the subject.

Miss Parizek said words that are similar in sound and appearance lead to extraordinary confusion among children. She gave as an example: "He was to indoors the check."

"Radio has become such a common means of entertainment, children find little time for reading for pleasure," Miss Parizek said, "and as a result their vocabularies are limited and often inaccurate."

Children today have no visual impression and imperfect hearing conception of words, she said. Some of the common mistakes her students made were: "He was fateful to his promise" and "the clamorous debutante."

The school teacher said some of the better radio personalities live up to their responsibility of supplying the non-reader with correct speech patterns, but many radio idols let down their devotees—who believe high paid entertainers couldn't possibly be wrong—by using incorrect pronunciation of words.

Miss Parizek said she believed a slow and reasonable change in common word usage was desirable, but the havoc done by careless forms of entertainment was quite another thing.

Party politics in Britain are out for the duration. Labor leaders sit in the cabinet and on all important government committees. In the factories, joint labor-management committees work out production problems.

REACHES DOCTOR'S OFFICE TOO LATE

PARKSVILLE, N. Y.—Isolated from the main highway and without a telephone, Mrs. Nial H. Houghtaling wrapped her four-months-old baby in a blanket and started to walk to a main road after she observed the child was ill.

After a three-mile walk she was picked up by a school bus and brought to Livingston Manor, where she entered a physician's office. The doctor pronounced the child dead of pneumonia.

WAR IS NEARING ITS FINAL PHASE

Full Scale Offensives By Allies, Everywhere, Are Indicated

Equally clear that there had been no change in the grand strategy previously agreed upon to smash Germany first.

In the absence of any hints as to what the conference accomplished in either the military or political fields, informed persons here speculated on the probability of several future developments:

The present strategical bombing of Germany will be followed by an Allied invasion of the continent this summer. It will develop at times and places where the Axis east expects it, just as the American drive to throw the Japanese out of the Aleutian islands began with a surprise flanking attack on Attu rather than a frontal assault on Kiska.

The war in Europe is expected to be won by sometime next year at the latest, but the conflict in the Pacific may run on until 1945 or 1946, according to reliable estimates.

QUART PER MONTH IS LIQUOR RATION

Or, It May Be a Fifth or Two Pints, Beginning Next Tuesday

Fisher said, "This includes Scotch, bourbon, blends, rye, Canadian whiskeys, rum, brandy and cordials." The retail zoning regulation requiring Ohioans to purchase bottled liquor from the state outlet in their residence neighborhood continues in effect, Fisher said. He indicated, however, that if the zone plan is not necessary in allocating supplies to stores it would be abandoned.

Fisher said state stores, where sales have been suspended since May 13 while employees issued ration purchase books, are now well stocked. Commitments from distillers, he added, indicate that the state would continue to receive approximately 200,000 cases of liquor monthly through the July-September quarter. Virtually one-half of available stocks are allocated to retail permit holders through state wholesale outlets.

Good Selection On Hand

"We have on hand a pretty good selection of brands," Fisher remarked. "While quantities vary, most of the popular liquors should be available."

Retail stores will return to their former schedule June 1, open from noon to 8 p. m. Central War (official state) Time, or 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. Eastern War Time.

The director announced that no ration books would be issued from June 1 to 5, inclusive, except to registrants physically incapacitated. All stores and agencies have forms for books may designate a purchase agent. The agent-designate may obtain the form and return it properly signed, together with evidence of the applicant's identity.

Persons who failed to apply for books within the May 10 midnight deadline, Fisher said, "are to be penalized one week." These may obtain their books on or after June 7. New applications may be mailed to liquor stores at any time.

All liquor stores will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial day.

Moonshine Prices Boom On Florida Gulf Coast

(By United Press)

SARASOTA—Moonshine has hit an all-time high of $10 per gallon along the Florida gulf coast. Old-time shine toters predict it may even go to $12 unless Prentiss Brown and the OPA muscle in with some ceiling prices that really put a damper on the increasing upward trend of fancy whisky prices.

A year and a half ago high-grade shine sold on an easy market for $1.25 per gallon—sometimes $2, if the buyer was a tourist. But with the war, the sugar restrictions, high prices on cornmeal, increasing number of revenue agents about, the boys in the hammocks are having a tougher time and prices reflect it. To beat the sugar restriction some of the smart shine makers are growing their own sugar cane, making a molasses out of the sap and using that. Others are doing what they did in the colonial days—mixing their cornmeal with water and making their mash without sugar. Its slower but it packs a punch.

The first adobe house north of San Francisco was erected in Marin county by an Indian chief who learned the art of brickmaking from Spanish explorers.

French Leaders to Talk

LONDON, May 28.—Informed quarters said today Gen. Charles De Gaulle was expected to meet Gen. Henri Giraud tonight in Algiers to initiate talks which might bring about a union of French elements now fighting the Axis.

(This was the first indication that Gen. De Gaulle already had left London for North Africa, although dispatches from Algiers yesterday intimated that a meeting between the two French leaders would take place very soon.)

Italy Wide Open

PORTSMOUTH, England, May 28.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, noting that Italy "now lies wide open to air attack," said today that the attack "will be pressed home by all the means in our power."

"We are relentlessly determined to destroy Fascism and prosecute the war against Italy with all the force we possess, so long as Italy fights Hitler's war," the foreign secretary declared at a "Wings for Victory" luncheon here.

Yankees Are Now Battling Japs With Hate In Hearts

(By United Press)

PEARL HARBOR — Bitterness fanned by the execution of America's Tokyo raiders is high among the men in uniform throughout the Pacific.

Across from the Royal Hawaiian hotel in Honolulu's Waikiki district where Pacific men of war rest from sea duty and Guadalcanal, is a theater. Sailors, marines and soldiers were jammed in it when a newsreel flashed the features of Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., commander in chief of the South Pacific.

And if there's anything left of the damn place (Tokyo) when we get there, we'll burn it down," Halsey said from the screen.

Men Shout Approval

No football stadium ever rocked with such shouts, yells and stamping of feet as did the theater when the men in the armed forces showed their approval of Fighting Bill's philosophy.

Off-quoted is an excerpt from a statement by Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, commander of U. S.

ground forces who was wounded in Tunisia: "We must fight . . . we must shoot to kill . . . we must lust for battle. There can be no remorse . . . no pangs of conscience . . . for our enemies have lighted the way to swifter, surer, crueller killing."

Military men are prosecuting the Pacific war on these precepts and follow another statement by Admiral Halsey: "The only way we'll win the war is to kill Japs, kill Japs, kill more Japs."

When Major General Borowitz, commander of the 15th Panzer division in Tunisia, recently surrendered, he was invited, as were members of his staff and another Nazi general, to lunch with the American commanding general to whom they surrendered.

One German officer was quoted as saying, "The Americans fought like sportsmen."

No Handshaking at End

American fighting men who have been bombed on Guadalcanal, Buna, and Canton; officers who were in dogfights over the Solomons; men who raided Munda; officers and men of Admiral Halsey have related how they fight with hate in their hearts. From what they and their leaders have said, there will be no shaking of hands over the tennis net when the Pacific battles are won. There won't be any invitations to lunch.

A few officers, seething with resentment, speculate on whether Tokyo may some day be a "Carthage." One officer recalled that when the Romans wiped out the Carthaginian war lords, the land was plowed with salt. "But I guess our vengeance can't be that complete," he added.

Recently, when Carthage fell to advancing Allied armies in Tunisia, correspondents said it was hard to realize that here once was centered one of the Roman era's hardest, cruelest armies.

For Total Disarmament

Pearl Harbor, the torture of the Chinese and Japanese, the wiping out of Chinese civilians from areas where America's Tokyo raiders crashed, all add up to shape the views of military personnel in the Pacific.

Not all express the same views but one officer said bluntly: "If anything can be found in the hearts or minds of the Japanese resembling civilization, it should be nourished. But there should be a house-to-house canvass by demolition squads who can erase any plant, facility, communication line or harbor installations that might be used in building for the next war."

Many officers and men of the Pacific with whom I've talked said Japan must not be permitted to continue industries or practices that will ultimately enable the country to re-arm for centuries after the unconditional surrender.

Noise Abatement Week Scheduled May 30, June 5

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, May 28.—The elimination of needless noise in homes, factories and offices as an aid to the war effort, will be emphasized during National Noise Abatement week, which will be observed throughout the nation May 30 to June 5.

Sam L. Hooper, president of the National Noise Abatement council said "People do not realize that when there is unnecessary noise in factories and offices that production slows up. Another menace is unnecessary noises during the daytime in neighborhoods where war workers on the night shift are sleeping. If a man or woman does not get the proper rest then he or she will be less efficient on the production line."

PASADENA, Cal.—"Lumber has gone to war," according to the West Coast Lumberman's association in convention here. They reported that 50,000,000,000 feet of West Coast lumber went into war construction the past year. All types of sea and air craft which are made entirely of wood accounted for much of it.

Fox farming in Quebec Province is an important farming industry. The value of pelts produced yearly is over the million mark.

Bliss, Electric Furnace Win Class A League Openers

EAST ENDERS AND METZGERS COP IN B CIRCUIT TILTS

Sweitzer's Homer Helps Bliss Hang Up First Win of Season

Believe it or not, the softball season has opened. Delayed almost a month because of rain and generally unfavorable weather, Class A and B leagues sent their clubs into action last night at Centennial park in the 1943 bid-lifters and the race is on.

The Electric Furnace clubbed out a 15-3 decision over the Deming combine while Bliss managed to eke out a 2-1 win over the Salem China in Class A contests.

In Class B, the East Enders conquered the Friends, 9 to 2, and the Metzgers were too good for the Presbyterians, 14 to 4.

Nine runs in the opening frame sewed things up for the Electric Furnace and the Deming rally in the second and third, which netted a total of three runs, was too feeble.

Courtney did the chugging for the Furnace and held the pump makers to six blows while his mates collected 16.

The Bliss-China tilt was almost a mid-season performance. Ritchie, twirling for the Bliss, limited the Chinas to three safe swats and permitted the only opposition run in the first frame.

That run, as the game went on, looked awfully big, however, and in fact, began to look like the game until the Bliss batters finally broke the ice and worked a run around in the seventh to tie it up.

The game went into nine innings before Bliss won, with Third Baseman Sweitzer contributing the first home run of the season. Fowler did a good job of hurrying for the losers, allowing only six hits, but it wasn't his night.

INDIANS RETURN TO SECOND PLACE

Tribe Loses Twice to Boston as Washington Advances to Top

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON, May 28—The Cleveland Indians were back in second place today after a bitter reign at the top of the American league.

A double defeat by the Boston Red Sox, coupled with Washington's win over St. Louis, accounted for the switch which moved the surprising Nationals into the lead by 1 1/2 games.

The Sox blanked the Tribe 2-0 in a morning encounter yesterday and repeated with a 4-3 decision in the afternoon. Boston hasn't lost to the Indians in four games this season.

Jack Salvason goes to the mound today in quest of the "Redskins' triumph over the easterners. K. Hall Chase, who won four of his games last year at Cleveland's expense, is Manager Joe Cronin's hurling choice.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Remember when fighters used to just fight? Well, Lightweight Bob Ruffin is scheduled to make his debut as an actor in "Is Zat So" in Trenton, N. J., June 15 and Chalky Wright recently received an offer to go on the stage with Canada Lee, the most successful example of a boxer turned actor.

At least two husband-wife training combinations have been noted around the race tracks. Johnny Forbes trains the nags and his wife, the former Nancy Shakespeare, exercises them. Ditto steeplechase rider Scotty Riles and Mrs. Riles, who won the annual ladies race in Maryland.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE
Holcombe Ward, U. S. Tennis association president who is a strong supporter of schoolboy tennis: "When I went to school, we weren't allowed to play tennis. I tried it once and as I left the court the football captain stopped me and asked why I wasn't playing football instead."

Marine Corp. R. A. Holbrook, a veteran of the famed U. S. S. Boise, was one of the standout performers in a recent regimental football game at the Georgia pre-flight school. He plays tailback.

Army reserve: Jim Milne, Michigan State high jumper, plans to become a paratrooper when he enters the army after his graduation. He figures he won't land much harder than after a six-foot-six high jump. Showing what becomes of college athletics these days, eleven Indiana U. varsity men, headed by Billy Hillenbrand, recently reported for basic training at Camp Croft, S. C.

HOLDBACK HELD BACK
It seems that Louis Novikoff is very slow at getting off. So far he hasn't hit a lick. Except with words, laid on quite thick.

HIGH SCHOOL JINKS
Mason City, Iowa, finally was stopped by the practically unknown Corwith baseball team recently after running up 58 consecutive victories in football, basketball and baseball. The tennis team also was unbeaten but only tied for the state championship.

Wins Three Races
COLUMBUS, May 28.—Jockey Willie McCadden of Cleveland set a new meet record at Euclid park track yesterday by riding three winners to boost his total to 44, two ahead of the previous mark set by Paul Keiper in 1938, with three days of racing to go.

Sues Boxer for $20,000
CLEVELAND, May 28.—The widow of James Vargas, who was killed in a Feb. 3 automobile accident, sued Anton Christoforidis, former light heavyweight boxing champion, for $20,000 in common pleas court. She charged the boxer was driving with a defective steering apparatus at an excessive speed on an icy road when the machine overturned.

HIGH SCHOOLS IN SPORTS CARNIVAL DURING WEEKEND

Four Championships to Be Decided In Two-Day Meet In Columbus

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, May 28.—Ohio's high schools wind up their season's athletic chores this weekend with their biggest carnival of the year—the two-day four-sport spring championships.

Titles in baseball, golf, tennis and track will be decided, with 980 athletes scrapping for the laurels. All titles will be decided Saturday. Elimination events start today. Baseball was to start at 9 a. m., golf and tennis at 1 p. m., and track at 2.

Sixteen baseball teams, eight in Class A and eight in Class B, will send 240 boys into action; golf has 74 entrants, tennis 90, and track and field 576. Preliminaries in nine track events, in both classes, are scheduled for today, clearing the way for tomorrow's 14-event finals.

Winners of individual events will receive medals from Ohio State University, and team trophies will go to the victorious squad in each sport. Ribbons will be awarded second and third places. In former years, in addition to the team trophies, gold medals went to the individual winners, silver to the runners-up, bronze to the third-placers, and ribbons to fourth and fifth.

H. R. Townsend, state scholastic athletic commissioner, said the medal and ribbon awards were slashed this year due to the difficulty of obtaining such prizes.

Cleveland East Tech will attempt to make its five championships in a row in the Class A track and field competition, while Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home Cadets will try to make it four straight in Class B. The Cadets, riddled by graduation, are not expected to triumph, but East Tech has another powerful contingent on hand. Springfield is expected to push the up-state squad to the limit, but the Wildcats probably haven't the all-around strength to win.

Tiltonville's defending champs in Class A baseball are back for another try, but the Class B race is wide open. Reading failing to get by the district qualifier.

LAKE PLACENTIA TO OPEN SUNDAY
Clash With Cuyahoga Falls Moose On Lake Lot At 3 P. M.

Lake Placencia will open its baseball season Sunday, clashing with the Cuyahoga Falls Moose, on the Lake Placencia diamond.

The Moose team last year won the Akron district championship, and also went to the third round in the national amateur tournament, held in Youngstown, before being eliminated.

The roster of the Moose club includes Bus Simpson and Nick Frascella, former Goodyear stars, and Red Thomas, one of Akron's best speedball flingers.

The following players are included in the Lake Placencia team: Bus Simpson, catcher; Earl Branfield, Don Hoffman and Eddie Gaughn, pitchers; Stratton, Stanley, Grove, Carl and J. Schwartzhoff, infielders; Close, T. Schwartzhoff and Miller, outfielders.

The game will be called at 3 p. m.

Major League Pennant Fight Comes To Boil For Weekend

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer

The major league pennant porridge is coming to a furious boil for the Memorial day weekend with the heat turned up as high as it will go.

In the American league the Washington Senators moved into first place last night to give the junior circuit its third pace-setter in five days and in the National league the St. Louis Cardinals moved to within a game and a half of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were topped for the second straight time at Pittsburgh and were so incensed they almost started a riot.

The Pirates, who had battered Brooklyn 17-4 on Wednesday, won again 9-5 on the margin of four runs in the eighth inning and in the midst of their rally Umpire George Barr called a balk on hot-headed Johnny Allen.

Four Players Ousted
The Dodger pitched charged into the umpire and precipitated a melee which resulted in four Brooklyn players—Allen, Fred Fitzsimmons, Rube Melton and Les Webber—all being banished from the field.

However, this tumult, occurring in the presence of 14,724 fans at a night game in Forbes field, hardly was the most important development of a busy day in the big show even though it was the noisiest.

The program started with a morning game at Boston, where the last place Red Sox unceremoniously ambushed the Cleveland Indians, who had ousted the New York Yankees from the American league lead on Sunday. Tex Hughson pitched five-hit ball to shut out the Tribe, 2-0.

In the afternoon the Red Sox repeated the trick, winning 4-3 as Oscar Judd outpitched Jim Bagby.

Then last night the Washington Senators whipped the St. Louis Browns 4-2 in their second straight floodlighted fracas. This lifted the Senators into first place and dropped the Browns into the cellar.

Lefty Hal Newhouser, who could not beat the Yankees a single time last year, held them to four hits in an afternoon game, fanned 14, but struckouts this season and four short of the major league record, and led the Detroit Tigers to a 3-2 victory that placed them in a tie with New York for third place.

National Loop Tightens
In another night game, the Philadelphia Athletics beat the Chicago White Sox 7-5 and the result was to bunch five American league clubs within two games of the top.

With doubleheaders coming up both Sunday and Monday and the leaders matched against each other, the scramble is likely to become even more confusing.

The National league race also tightened up as the Cardinals nosed out the Boston Braves 3-2.

The Cincinnati Reds punctured the Philadelphia Phillies' balloon with a second straight shutout 7-0.

New York's Giants also trimmed the Chicago Cubs again 3-2 as Lou Novikoff failed to hit for the second day in succession.

DEATH GOES NATIVE

By MAX LONG

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Komako rose to face him, and waited.

"It's just this," Dr. Latham said rapidly as if he wanted to be through with it. "Last night, when she ran over to ask Mrs. Delmar if she was—that character, there was no one in the living room. The bedroom door was closed, but Elaine heard Mrs. Delmar's voice. She said, 'No, you can't have my play! Why should you?' There was no reply that Elaine could hear, but in a moment she was struggling and—and a gurgle, she says—and she was terrified and ran out again in the rain."

Komako's eyes were gleaming. The absolute proof of our theory had come as opportunely as manna from heaven. I was so excited myself I don't know what Komako said by way of thanks. There was some confusion in the room, I know, people talking after a shocked silence. Latham left immediately. Komako resumed his seat, but his big feet on the footstool and regarded Budd with undisguised triumph.

"You know that kind of murder," he began, "where fellow is not mad like you say Hasty was, but where he plan ahead to kill—cold in his blood?"

"Are you trying to say premeditated murder?" Budd asked superciliously.

"That's it!" Komako fished around in his pocket and brought up the scorched bit of calendar. "Somebody here go by moon and stars. He pick out date and mark it. Date for kill Delmar."

"Rubbish," Budd said with a laugh. Thornton and Josephine smiled, too. Rawson sat forward eagerly, muttering:

"I knew that was important!" But Komako's eyes were on Herb. Herb was perspiring copiously all over his red face. Komako stated:

"You mark this, Herb, with your purple ink."

"What if I did?" Herb shouted, and then glanced about furtively. "I always go by the moon for planting. That's why I marked that date. Yes, that's why."

Komako carefully replaced the scrap of calendar in his pocket, merely remarking: "This good for showing court you premeditated to kill Delmar. But I got more—"

"Looky here, you can't say that!" Herb bounded to his feet. "How could I go out to the sump when I was laid out cold? Didn't I get beamed over the head by the murderer?"

"Murderer not hit you," Komako said, "and you not hit yourself." He raised his voice and shouted "Henry!"

Out on the sunlit path I saw Henry turn away from Mokino and Mary and come unwillingly nearer to the lanai as Komako called again. He was apprehensive and half defiant as he came among us and stopped before Komako.

"Now, Henry, you going tell just what you tell me little while ago—'bout that night you come down from garden with Herb when you been watching for mongoose?"

"No," Henry muttered uneasily with a fleeting glance at Herb. "Come, come," Komako said cheerfully. "I take care for you. You got no fear. Besides, you are better man than Herb if he try anything."

A grin almost broke through the worry on Henry's face and he began to tell his story. He had not gone off to the village that night, he said, but had followed Herb. He had waited around Herb's house—he wasn't sure how long—then had gone down to the shore. It was very dark and he came cautiously, but when he next saw Herb, Herb was getting out of a canoe with a fish spear in his hand.

"What you think he going to do with spear?" Komako prompted. "I thought maybe he was going to kill shark. Anyhow, he was too bossy. I wanted just once to hit him good and hard."

Herb started threateningly forward. "Was it you that hit me over the head?"

Henry nodded, but he held his head forward like a young bull. Komako interfered. "Year, that is how you get hit, Herb. But you was getting out of canoe with spear. You come from killing Delmar—you wait around in water while Hasty comes and finds body—then you clean up quick and come in to shore—with Hasty's spear!"

"No, no!" Herb began to shout hysterically. "No, I didn't!" He was quivering like jelly all over his fat scantily clad body.

Komako went on inexorably: "What you doing with spear, then?" "I wasn't—I didn't—oh, Lord!" He subsided, almost whimpering.

"You bring that spear to inquest," Komako accused him. "You think it is going to count against Hasty—but now it count against you."

"I didn't have a spear," Herb whined. "Henry is lying!" "Mrs. Latham see you with spear, too," Komako told him. "Say, can you write on typewriter?"

"Typewriter? No—" He saw Budd lean forward. "Yes—a little. What's all this about?" He was jittery with alarm, confused at the abrupt change in questioning.

"You got bug poison for plants?" "Sure, but—" "All right, looks like we got a case," Komako said firmly. "We tie you up with Mrs. Delmar pretty soon. More better you tell it now. Come, come."

"I didn't kill the Delmars!" Herb almost screamed. "You can't prove—" He stopped suddenly and all the color drained from his face. "Oh, Lord," he groaned. "Maybe the spear—look, I'll tell you the truth. I can't be held for murder! But you've got to protect me." His voice sank to a hoarse whisper. "I was out there with my own spear to kill that shark. I'd been watching for him to come to shore in the dark of moon—that's when the Hawaiians fed him. That's why I marked the calendar. But for the love of Heaven, don't tell Mokino I killed the shark!"

Henry growled out something in Hawaiian and Herb shrank back toward Komako.

But Komako was done with him for the moment. He turned suddenly on Budd, who was sitting there with a cynical grin on his face, and said:

"You are afraid, too, Mr. Lyman Larue."

Not a muscle moved in Budd's

scholarly face. "Why do you call me that?"

"Because it is your name," Komako hauled the red notebook from his pocket, got out his glasses and adjusted them, spread the notebook open on the footstool between his feet, and consulted the entry. "Police want you bad in Massachusetts, Mr. Larue."

It was another bold bluff, but I knew how little lay back of it, and held my breath. Budd said nothing, and Komako looked up at him over his glasses. "You getting awful desperate, no? You swim out to shore—with Hasty's spear!"

"No, no!" Herb began to shout hysterically. "No, I didn't!" He was quivering like jelly all over his fat scantily clad body.

Komako went on inexorably: "What you doing with spear, then?" "I wasn't—I didn't—oh, Lord!" He subsided, almost whimpering.

"You bring that spear to inquest," Komako accused him. "You think it is going to count against Hasty—but now it count against you."

"I didn't kill the Delmars!" Herb almost screamed. "You can't prove—" He stopped suddenly and all the color drained from his face. "Oh, Lord," he groaned. "Maybe the spear—look, I'll tell you the truth. I can't be held for murder! But you've got to protect me." His voice sank to a hoarse whisper. "I was out there with my own spear to kill that shark. I'd been watching for him to come to shore in the dark of moon—that's when the Hawaiians fed him. That's why I marked the calendar. But for the love of Heaven, don't tell Mokino I killed the shark!"

Henry growled out something in Hawaiian and Herb shrank back toward Komako.

But Komako was done with him for the moment. He turned suddenly on Budd, who was sitting there with a cynical grin on his face, and said:

"You are afraid, too, Mr. Lyman Larue."

Not a muscle moved in Budd's

Henry looked uneasily at Budd. "I think it was him." Then he glanced at Herb and his face tightened. "Or maybe him."

Budd gave a short laugh. "Or maybe Thornton West, here—or Rawson. Come, Komako, quit trying to be a detective. You can't solve your friend, Hoyt. You're too transparent! As a matter of fact, this last accusation can be annulled by the deputy sheriff, Sam Ota. We were with him all morning, telling him the story of what had happened since Hoyt came to Waimaka."

Komako said calmly: "I know when Hasty and me leave his boat—and I know when Sam Ota get here. Plenty time for swim! Now, let's see, Mr. Larue...." He adjusted his spectacles again and leaned over to study his notebook, spread open on the stool in front of him.

Suddenly he leaned closer. He was looking at the stool, not at the notebook. He grabbed up the stool and began tearing at it with his huge strong fingers. The loosened strands of lauhala gave way. The hole gaped wider as he exerted his strength, then he began hauling out the bundle of stuffing. It was then that I saw an edge of blue paper. He must have caught a glimpse of it through the broken edge, jolted loose from the rest of the stuffing, no doubt, by Herb's rough handling of the footstool. In no time a neat blue-covered manuscript lay in Komako's hands. It was a genuine copy of the play this time, the carbon. He flipped the typewritten pages eagerly, while I rushed to look over his shoulder.

Before I could make out any of it, he leaped to his feet and ran with it toward the kitchen.

We were all on our feet by that time, so amazed that we only stared after him uncertainly. Then we heard his voice raised in mighty shouts to the Hawaiians outside. They jabbered back excitedly. The people on the lanai milled and started running in various directions.

I started toward the kitchen, when above the tumult another sound came to my ears—a familiar cough and sputter from the direction of the bay. I knew the sound of my sampan engine, silent now these days since my key was stolen. No one else seemed to notice it, but I began to run, bursting out of the lanai, down the path past the others and on the way to my boat. I saw Komako and the other Hawaiians searching frantically around the houses, but I ran on with no breath to spare for yelling to Komako. I became aware of loud shouts behind me, of my erstwhile guard in hot pursuit. I redoubled my effort and gained the wateredge first. My dinghy was gone, but the sampan hadn't moved. I halted, panting, and heard another catch from the engine. I kicked off my shoes, dived into the bay, and swam with all my strength, accompanied by the sound of my engine settling to a steady chug.

Indian Language Decorating Motif

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—The sign language of the Indians—once a means of communication between the white man and the natives of this nation—has reappeared in a new role: a decorating motif.

Indicative of the increasing interest in the southwest as a vacationland for tourists from both coasts, Everett Brown, well-known decorator for Marshall Field & Co., has turned to the southwest for inspiration for a new type of decor which he calls southwestern modern.

The atmosphere of the southwest has been brought out in a model home through modern adaptations of the picturesque figures which the Indians used to convey messages, and the skillful use of the clear colors of that area of the country.

Drawer pulls on the furniture of the house, decorations for screens, and insets for bed headboards utilize the Indian signs. Surroundings in chili, saddle, burro gray, conchos silver, pinon green, mesa blue and copper, the decorator says, bring the atmosphere of the "wide open spaces" to the heavily populated urban areas.

Since wartime restrictions prevent the production of many new furniture styles, southwestern modern utilizes previously designed furniture with leather fringe and leather throngs added for new notes.

Typical of the "old things into new" scheme are large Mexican baskets which, inverted, serve as bedside tables. Hub-caps of prairie schooners serve as lamp bases.
